Peri d for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 24 September 2003.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1,3-14, 16-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kirk et al. (US Pat. 6,025,186) in view of EP 1 043 273 and DE 3820726.

Kirk et al. disclose a hygiene product, such as diapers, adult incontinence products, training pant, feminine napkins and tampons, containing a composition containing hydrogen peroxide, which composition is effective in reducing malodour arising in soiled hygiene products by killing or inhibiting the growth of microorganisms, such as bacteria, producing compounds responsible for degradation of urine and the like into bad smelling compounds (Columns 2-4).

EP 1 043 273 discloses that mannitol acts as a stabilizer for hydrogen peroxide (Column 1, lines 34-53).

DE 3820726 discloses that encapsulation of hydrogen peroxide increases storage stability of the hydrogen peroxide (See entire reference, especially abstract).

The difference between the prior art and the claimed invention is that the prior art does not expressly disclose the combination of mannitol and hydrogen peroxide in an absorbent product. However, the prior art amply suggests the same as it is known in the art to use hydrogen peroxide in absorbent products and that mannitol and encapsulation increase the stability of hydrogen peroxide. As such, it would have been well within the skill of and one of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to modify the prior art as above with the expectation that the product would be effective in decreasing malodours and that the hydrogen peroxide would be storage stable.

Examiner has duly considered Applicant's arguments but deems them unpersuasive.

In response to applicant's arguments against the references individually, one cannot show nonobviousness by attacking references individually where the rejections are based on combinations of references. See In re Keller, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981); In re Merck & Co., 231 USPQ 375 (Fed. Cir. 1986).

In response to applicant's argument that Kirk et al. does not suggest the combination or desirability of hydrogen peroxide-carbohydrate or the instability of the hydrogen peroxide, the test for obviousness is not whether the features of a secondary reference may be bodily incorporated into the structure of the primary reference; nor is it that the claimed invention must be expressly suggested in any one or all of the references. Rather, the test is what the combined teachings of the references would have suggested to those of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Keller, 642 F.2d 413, 208 USPQ 871 (CCPA 1981). As such, the fact that Kirk et al. does not suggest or teach the instability of hydrogen peroxide does not overcome the rejection herein. The teachings of the prior art combined do suggest the instability of hydrogen peroxide and the means by which it may be made more stable which would motivate one of ordinary skill in the art to modify the prior art as above.

Therefore, the claimed invention, as a whole, would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, because every element of the invention has been collectively taught by the combined teachings of the references.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
